hello all

i am guessing that the forum was going a little wonky this weekend. i made three posts between saturday afternoon and sunday morning that were QUITE difficult to get to just the awaiting moderator approval page (kept logging me out), so it is quite possible that the forum just ate the posts

i did not intend to cause a ruckus (although that would be my MO) or offend, but thankfully the nice gentleman contacted me through PM and requested a picture of the 602 board and then spent a few hours emailing me back and forth until my eyes started to tell me that it was time to give it a rest i'll be picking this back up in an hour or so and we'll see where it gets us thanks again everybody!
