

---

Subject: Repair Inquiry

Posted by MJOHNSON on Sat, 25 May 2024 17:35:37 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Hello. I was referred to you by Don, on one of the Kustom facebook groups. He suggested that I may have a K200A-1 amplifier head. The name plate is missing from the back panel and the front panel doesn't have a model name on it. A dear friend band buddy who passed away a decade ago bought it used in the NYC area around 1980. Our band buddies put it in the back corner of the studio with other retired gear. I have recently got the idea to research it and possibly move forward with restoring it. This appears to be modified or a factory parts Frankenstein. I have a bunch of photos. Would you consider helping me ? Thank you.

---

---

Subject: Re: Repair Inquiry

Posted by stevem on Sat, 25 May 2024 17:50:19 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

If this is the same one I commented on the from the pictures on the Facebook site then that amp is a full on rebuild job, not a restoration.

This would be a big expense to have someone else do it so it would not make sense to go thru all it needs if you where doing such to just try and sell it.

---

---

Subject: Re: Repair Inquiry

Posted by MJOHNSON on Sun, 26 May 2024 00:39:38 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

This is not for sale. Full rebuild.

---