
Subject: Kustom KLA 100 Amp head
Posted by Coffindan on Thu, 28 Jan 2016 21:35:16 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hello all! I came across a Kustom KLA100 Lead Guitar Amp head today at the pawn shop. I don't have the serial number info but I did take a pic. I was going to post a pic but that doesn't seem to be working. Maybe because I just joined?

Anyway I was wondering if anyone has any info on the 90's model heads. I believe this is what it is. It reminds me of the Ampeg heads. I believe it stated 400 watts on the back. Is that correct?

Any suggestions on uploading a pic would be appreciated as well.

Rock on!!

Subject: Re: Kustom KLA 100 Amp head
Posted by pleat on Fri, 29 Jan 2016 01:32:45 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

You have to have 10 posts before you can post photo's. 1995-96 catalog shows a KML80 amp that is MOS-FET amps. I'd think your amp would be in that age range and maybe 100 watts RMS. The 400 watts stated on the back of the amp is probably what it draws from the wall outlet.
pleat

Subject: Re: Kustom KLA 100 Amp head
Posted by Coffindan on Fri, 29 Jan 2016 13:06:25 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Thanks for the info Pleat!

Talking to a friend on Facebook has confirmed pretty much the same. Turns out he had one of these and loved it. He is pretty adamant that I should buy it. HA HA!
