I just picked up a 200B from my local Sam Ash. I was going to post a pic but think I may not have enough privileges yet to do that. I walked in, took one look at the price and told my sales guy I want it. $199.00! The tag said 199.00 for the amp with free cabinet. They told me it had something rattling inside. I didnt even plug it in since I knew I could repair the amp or speaker if I had to. Its in really nice shape. I would have preferred something other than black but Im not complaining. I always wanted one of these. Played them back in the 60s but I never owned one. I had a Traynor YBA-3 then. Still have one from 1969. Well I hooked up the 200B when I got it home and I can't hear anything wrong with it. It works great. It has 2 Carvin P15 8 ohm speakers in it which I am going to change out and will post another thread about that.
