I received a pristine Kustom 300 slant PA head from MusicGoRound in Wisconsin today. Literally one baby nick on the bottom and that's it. $200. This is my first of this kind so I have a few questions.

1. What exactly does the Reverb Lock do? Is it just an on/off type of thing?
2. The reverb on this head is very subtle compared to my K200s. Not a bad thing, but was wondering if this is normal for this head.
3. What exactly do the Anti-Feedback knobs do? Do all three apply to all channels or are they assigned to certain channels?
4. There is still some volume with the Master Volume all the way down. Total sound cut only occurs when the channel itself is turned off. Is this normal?
5. The serial number is 77551. Does that make it a 1971?

As always, thank you so much for your knowledge. I wish we could post pics because this thing is mint. Unlike the one Guitar Center sent me that was completely THRASHED on the back and bottom (and was promptly returned).
