Am thinking about making an offer on a pair of cabinet listed on ebay. The guy has them priced at $1000 and they have been listed for over a year. These are the instrument cabinet...shorter....and not the PA cabinets. I only need one cabinet so would be willing to sell the other. I will be going that way next month on my way to Texas to pick up my organ that I bought. If anyone is interested in one of these cabinets, PM me and we can see what we can work out. Thanks.

I searched too and couldn't find anything. I don't know about Florida laws but here in California Guitar center has to follow the same rules as pawn shops when it comes to used gear. As soon as they get it they're allowed to display it however they are required to hold it for 30 days before they can let it leave the store so they don't put those items online until after the waiting period. Right now I'm waiting to pickup my Gibson S-1 I was able to pay for it so they took it off the shelf and put it in the back but I can't get it until it's been in the store for 30 days.

It is not listed on their site. The store is on Atlantic Blvd. I was in the store and saw them personally. It is a set of black. I have no idea if the speakers were original or not. The horns were in place. You should call them and ask them to take pics. The fabric seemed to be in pretty good shape. below is their info

9365 Atlantic Boulevard Suite 1
Jacksonville, FL 32225

Main Number
