
Subject: Rick-o-sound into K250-4 = Love!
Posted by fieldflower on Fri, 12 Aug 2016 16:23:54 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Recently got my dream bass guitar - a Rickenbacker 4003.
Today I was curious to test the Rick-o-sound (stereo jack that allows splitting the neck pickup and the bridge pickup to separate amps) and came up with a quick cable solution.
So I connected the neck pickup to the bass channel of my Kustom 250, and the bridge pickup to the guitar channel.
Boosted the bass on the bass channel and turned on a little bit of fuzz on the guitar channel, and man it sounds good!
Massive bass with a growling core that reacts very dynamically to playing style.
The bass channel is useful on its own, but the guitar channel is a little to non-bassy. But mixing both is great!

Just wanted to share my Kustom related happiness...

Subject: Re: Rick-o-sound into K250-4 = Love!
Posted by stevem on Sat, 13 Aug 2016 09:54:16 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Good to hear it's smile time!
