
Subject: Kustom IV Lead Schematic

Posted by snakesalive on Wed, 03 Dec 2008 18:26:35 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hello,

I know it's not the tuck and roll, but I want to pick up a kustom lead IV schematic and was wondering if anyone could point me to a site where I could obtain one.

The Broadway Music co. doesn't have Schematics for the IV, but has V and III. I have seen a site charging 20 bucks and has the schematic, but wasn't feeling to safe ordering from them.

Any help would be much appreciated!

Subject: Re: Kustom IV Lead Schematic

Posted by stevem on Fri, 05 Dec 2008 11:07:04 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

What area of the amp has a problem? I would open the amp first and get the PC board numbers off of all the PC boards, as these amps are very much like the metal face K150 and K250 serie of amps. In fact the bass amp uses the same two preamp boards I think, being pc5067 and pc5066.

Subject: Re: Kustom IV Lead Schematic

Posted by snakesalive on Fri, 05 Dec 2008 18:14:58 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Thank you! I'm not really experiencing a problem atm. I'm more curious how everything works and would like to have it in case something does go wrong.

Subject: Re: Kustom IV Lead Schematic

Posted by springtank on Fri, 05 Dec 2008 22:39:28 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

snakesalive,

If you are talking about the $20 schematic available here:

<http://www.musicparts.com/products.asp?Company=Kustom>

I have ordered three schematics from them with no problems. They give you access to a server with the schem, and you have a few days to access the server and download the schem. I thought it was a neat setup. It looks like the Lead IV schematic they offer comes with more stuff than just the circuit too. If you use PayPal or a credit card, then you automatically have some buyer protection.

I have no affiliation with the company other than being a satisfied customer. That is my experience with them.

Springtank

Subject: Re: Kustom IV Lead Schematic
Posted by snakesalive on Sat, 06 Dec 2008 01:27:41 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Awesome thank you very much!
